1) What is the purpose of a position description?

It is a communication tool used to describe a specific position to include:

- Purpose of the position
- Main duties & responsibilities (including % of time allotted to those main duties)
- Qualifications needed
- Basic conditions of employment (to include physical demands & environmental working conditions, what type of supervision will be received and given, any special conditions such as licenses required)

It is a communication tool used by:

- Administrative Offices - for organizational design, to share expectations & measure performance against those expectations
- Human Resources - as a basis for recruitments, for classification studies to determine appropriate classification and salary
- Outside Agencies - for comparison purposes and worker’s compensation inquiries
- Incumbent - to have a clear understanding of the position and performance expectations

It is also a requirement from the Office of the Chancellor.

2) Who prepares the position description and why?

The appropriate manager prepares the PD with help from the incumbent if the position is filled.

- Position descriptions are created for vacant positions (recruitments) and/or new positions, reassignments of an incumbent, and/or part of a reorganization or reclassification.
- For positions with incumbents: managers are encouraged to work closely with the incumbent.
- Responsibility for the final assignment of duties rests with management.

3) Consistent format of position descriptions is important. The main sections are:

- General Information
- Action Requested
- Purpose of position
- Duties & Responsibilities
- Qualifications & special conditions
- Physical & environmental working conditions
- Supervision
- Signature
4) Define the purpose of the position – Position Purpose. This section describes the overall purpose or basic primary function of the position. Basically, it tells the reason the position exists.

- Write a brief statement or paragraph describing the broad purpose of the intended position in such a way that it is distinguished from all other similar positions in the unit.
- Create Linkages – Every position contributes to the accomplishment of the specific goals and mission of the department in which it is located as well as those of the University. Refer to these in the purpose.

Example – PURPOSE STATEMENT- ASA II – Academic Office

> "The purpose of the position is to provide clerical support to the Department Chair of ______, including opening, replying to, or forwarding mail to appropriate staff, maintaining files and records, scheduling and arranging appointments, drafting simple correspondence, and providing budget support."

Example – PURPOSE STATEMENT- Custodian – Housing

> The incumbent in this position is a member of the University Housing team. In conjunction with the Executive Director, Associate Directors and other managers, staff, and students, this position assists in carrying out the mission and philosophy of University Housing and is responsible for supporting and contributing to an atmosphere that facilitates respect, inclusivity and collaboration.

> This position provides general cleaning and custodial care and support for assigned campus buildings, facilities, structures and adjacent areas and/or portions thereof, including, but not limited to, campus offices; locker rooms; student residences, patios, entryways and walkways, and workshops. Custodial staff may work independently or as part of a custodial team.

5) Duties & Responsibilities: The average job will have several major job duties, sometimes referred to as essential functions of the job. These are duties in which the incumbent must demonstrate satisfactory performance.

- Identify these major job duties and assign a percentage to each
- Using the major job duties as your header, make a list of individual tasks associated with it.
- Add "other job duties" under that heading – combining a variety of duties (5 – 10%) in a misc. category is acceptable.
- The total of all job duties must add up to 100%.
When possible, the incumbent should take some time to jot down duties/tasks as they are performed, including those performed intermittently (i.e. once/semester). Once captured, describe them briefly using the following questions:

- What action is taken? Be sure to use action verbs (write, analyze, type, etc.) Avoid using unclear words such as perform, coordinate, handle, process or oversee
- What is the object of the action you perform? Ex., types reports, writes memos.

Other Tips:

- Avoid acronyms – unless you have previously identified what the acronym stands for.
- Use present tense – for example, write “the incumbent provides a variety of clerical support services…” not, “the incumbent will be responsible for…”
- Create Linkages to Performance Criteria and the Mission and Goals of the Department and/or University.

In the examples below, note how the quality of the statement changes your understanding of the duties being explained:

- BAD: Processes invoices for payments.
- GOOD: Working under minimal supervision, matches invoices against purchase orders, checks extensions, discounts, freight charges, coding and authorized signatures. When correct, attaches a separate sheet and lists invoice date, number and account.

- BAD: Handles incoming mail
- GOOD: Distributes mail once daily into faculty and staff mailboxes

Write in a “Matter of Fact” tone. For example, instead of “The incumbent serves as a liaison to high level offices coordinating highly sensitive matters…” write “The incumbent receives visitors, answers incoming phone calls, prioritizes incoming correspondence, and routes interoffice mail.”

Describe duties in a manner appropriate to the scope and level of authority of the position. For example, instead of, “Develops and implements faculty contracts”, write “Drafts faculty contracts for management review by collecting all necessary information and using the merge function to complete the template.” There is no need to describe every detail of the work; the idea is to provide examples of the work performed consistent with the level of responsibility and independent judgment utilized in the position.

6) Required Qualifications

- Education and Experience: should match (be consistent with) those listed on the classification standards. Do not copy and paste from the classification standards.

- Licenses, Certificates and Credentials: List any required for the position. If using a template, be sure to review each pre-loaded statement listed to determine if it is actually a requirement for the position that you are concerned with.
