“Save Me a Spot in College” Contest - FAH (Vol. 7, No. 45)

Students are advised that the Campaign for College Opportunity is a California nonprofit organization created to ensure that the next generation of Californians has the chance to go to college as promised by the Master Plan for Higher Education. California is experiencing a large growth in the 18 - 24 year old population, which will strain the ability of the state to keep its promise. Working together with parents, teachers, community leaders, and students like you, the organization hopes to help California keep the college promise dream alive.
