The Preliminary Mild/Moderate (M/M) and Moderate/Severe (M/S) Education Specialist Program

The exemplary Special Education programs at CSU Bakersfield are accredited by the National Council on Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) and the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CCTC). The Preliminary Program prepares candidates for a career in teaching K-12 students who have Mild/Moderate or Moderate/Severe disabilities and receive special education services.

Program Design

Every candidate's individualized program includes 37 semester units of course work in general education and in special education across three developmental phases. Candidates choose either the Mild/Moderate or Moderate/Severe program.

Phase I: Foundation and Basic Understanding
Credentialed candidates study how special education students relate to the entire spectrum of students enrolled in today’s classrooms. Candidates at this level develop a basic understanding of: characteristics of students with Mild/Moderate/Severe disabilities; research in learning theories and instructional practices; communication and collaboration; and issues related to curriculum and instructional adaptation for special needs students.

Phase II: Skills Development
During the second phase, credential candidates will acquire specific knowledge and skills that will enable the candidate to teach and assess students with special needs and to manage classroom behavior.

Phase III: Culmination and Field Experiences
In the final stage, credential candidates utilize what they have learned and experienced during the first two phases. Through field experiences, candidates will have ample opportunity to demonstrate their competence in assessment, curriculum planning, instruction, and classroom and behavior management strategies. Candidates will share their successes and/or concerns with other candidates and university field experience supervisors in seminars.
