Description

Enterprise College is a three-week summer program in economics. Students learn principles of economics with application to social issues. They also learn the essentials of leadership within the economic environment. The course meets the standards for both the senior-year high school course and an introductory college economics course.

Date and Time

Enterprise College meets 8:00 A.M. to 12:00 P.M., Monday through Thursday, June 16 through July 3, 2014. Attendance in all class sessions is mandatory. Because of space limitation, qualified students are admitted on a first-come, first-served basis.

Partnership

Enterprise College is offered through a CSUB- KHSD partnership. CSUB’s School of Business and Public Administration coordinates and offers the program. KHSD announces the program, encourages students to apply, and provides contact information of eligible students. Mid State Development Corporation provides a generous donation to help reduce the program cost to students.

Eligibility

The target audience is high school students entering their senior year. The eligibility for attending the program is a GPA of 3.0 or better and enrollment in at least one College Preparation or Honors course in the junior year.

College Credit

Students are enrolled under the Young Scholars Program. Those who successfully complete the course receive credit for The Economic Way of Thinking (Economics 100, 5 quarter-units), which is transferable to accredited colleges and universities. Economics 100 applies toward the lower-division general education requirement in social sciences at the CSUB.

High School Credit

Students who successfully complete the course are credited for the senior-year economics course at the College Preparatory level. To receive credit at the Honors level, students must earn grades of B+ or better.

Cost to Student

Taking an undergraduate course through the Open University will cost about $1,000. Fortunately though, enrolling students through the Young Scholars Program and the donation from the Mid State Development Corporation reduce the program cost to students to only $100. Enterprise College participation requires a non-refundable payment of $100, which covers a registration fee, a parking permit, a program T-shirt, and a class photo. Upon verification of student financial needs by high school counselors, partial assistance of $50 is available.
