

CSU Bakersfield

School of Social Sciences and Education

Position #: 16/17 SSE 01

School Information:

The School of Social Sciences and Education currently houses eight departments. Visit the web page at <http://www.csub.edu/sse/> for additional information about the School's programs and the area.

Department Information:

In the Department of Sociology our goal is to advance students' intellectual preparation in macro and micro sociological concepts through rigorous, substantive, theoretical, and methodological coursework. For additional information view our web site: www.csub.edu/sociology

General Information:

California State University, Bakersfield, founded in 1970, is one of twenty-three campuses of the CSU System and currently has an enrollment of 8,000 students. The University services a socially and ethnically diverse population of 850,000 in an area of 10,000 square miles. The city of Bakersfield (population over 325,000) is located in the southern San Joaquin Valley and has a much lower cost of living than coastal California. Los Angeles, the Pacific Ocean, Mojave Desert, and Sierra Nevada Mountains are all within a two-hour drive from campus.

Position: Assistant Professor of Sociology with expertise in Quantitative Methodology

Type: Tenure-Track

Available: August 2016

Location: Department of Sociology (MS 24DDH)
School of Social Sciences and Education

Contact: Search and Screening Committee
California State University, Bakersfield
9001 Stockdale Highway
Bakersfield, CA 93311-1022

Position: Tenure-track assistant professor beginning August 2016. We are specifically looking for a dynamic and enthusiastic teacher-scholar with a strong background in quantitative analysis and methodology. Secondary area is open yet priority will be given to candidates with expertise completing current program. Assistant professors are evaluated annually on teaching success, research/scholarly record, and service; the normal probationary period is 6 years. Interested candidates are invited to visit our Website at <http://www.csub.edu/Sociology/>.

Professional Responsibilities: Develop and teach courses in quantitative analysis, statistics and research methods, as well as other core areas of the discipline. Some Sociology courses will be offered entirely on-line or in "hybrid" form. It is CSUB policy that faculty using technology-mediated pedagogy must be formally certified through an approved training program. Additionally, the candidate is expected to develop a research/scholarly record during the 6 year probationary period, as well as professionally-related service record. Service may include community-based programs associated with the School of Social Sciences & Education's Center for Quality of Life.

Qualifications: A Ph.D. in Sociology at the time of appointment is required. We seek a colleague with primary teaching and research expertise in quantitative analysis and methodology. Preference will be given to candidates with demonstrated teaching experience, a well-developed research agenda, and a record of funded or unfunded grants and proposals. For additional information, contact Dr. Doreen Anderson-Facile, chair of the Department of Sociology, 661-654-2512 or danderson_facile@csub.edu.

Application Process: Applications received by November 1, 2015 will be given full consideration; position will remain open until filled. Send an original and personal letter of application, current curriculum vita, documentation of teaching experience, effectiveness (especially with undergraduate students), and philosophy, transcripts verifying course work and award of degree; and names of three (3) professional references and contact information (address, office telephone, & email) to the contact information stated above. We will contact references for semi-finalists and finalist candidates directly.

Compensation: Based on academic year appointment and highly competitive dependent upon qualifications and experience.