Program Overview

The recently-updated Master of Science Degree in Counseling with an emphasis in Student Affairs is designed to prepare effective professional counselors to work in student service positions within community colleges, college, and university settings.

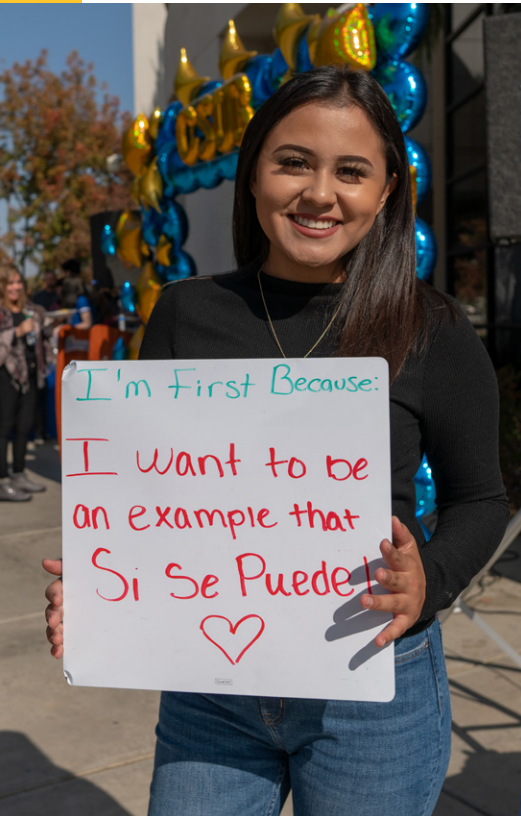

The 4-semester unit program can be completed in as little as two years while attending full-time. The courses include counseling classes, specialty classes, and a 600-hour field experience lasting one year. All courses for the degree are conveniently offered weekdays after 5:00 pm on the Bakersfield campus.

Extensive field-based experience is woven throughout the curriculum. Examples of practicum and internship placements include: Admissions and Records, Financial Aid, Student Activities, and Residential Life.
